Course Description

The world has never been a simple place where an individual is in complete control of their destiny. We live in communities, regions, and countries, with decision made on each level potentially having an effect on our lives. This course will study how countries interact with one another. We will also seek to understand how scholars view how countries act towards each other, either in cooperation or competition with one another. We will also study how countries are expected to act towards each other, as well as how countries address various global issues.

Course Objectives

This course satisfies three credits of the university's Social and History General Education and Cultural Diversity requirements. At the conclusion of this course, you will be able to:

1. Have a basic knowledge of the structures, substance, and context of contemporary world politics.
2. Know and understand the major theories and analytical perspectives policy makers and political scientists use to interpret and respond to events in world politics.
3. Understand the history of great power rivalry and imperialism and its aftermath, the interdependence of economic and security issues, and the growing role of non-state actors in world politics.
4. Have basic understanding of international law, human rights, and development as well as how political scientists produce knowledge through research on the causes of war and violence.
5. Know the role and function of major institutions and agreements regarding international trade and finance.

Textbooks and other readings

Mingst, Karen A., Heather Elko McKibben, and Ivan M. Arreguin-Toft. 2019. Essentials of International Relations. 8th Edition. New York: W.W. Norton. ISBN: 978-0-393-64327-5). Required

Other readings will be posted on D2L.

Grading

Two midterm exams: 30% (15% each)

Final exam: 20%

IR theory paper: 15%

International law/organizations paper: 15%

Reading quizzes: 10%

Participation: 10%

Final grade scale: A = 93% and above, A- = 90%-93%, B+ = 87%-89%, B = 83%-86%, B- = 80%-82%, C+ = 77%-79%, C = 73%-76%, C- = 70%-72%, D+ = 67%-69%, D = 60%-66%, F = 59% and below (Note: I do not round up final grades if you are just below the cutoff, such as having a 92.8%. I have to define the scale at some point, and some people are always going to fall on the other side of the divide. Do not beg to be bumped up. If you have any concerns about grades for individual assignments, please see me. I do have a 48-hour “cooling off” policy and you have to see me about any grade appeals within a week of me grading an assignment. If you appeal, you need to write a 2-3 paragraph summary of why you think the grade you received does not reflect your work).

Exams (Two midterms at 15% each and final exam worth 20%): Three exams will be administered during the semester. The final exam is cumulative. Exams consist of multiple-choice and essay questions. If you miss an exam, you can take a make-up exam during University Day (Friday, Apr. 29). Unfortunately, I will not allow more than one make-up exam unless both absences are due to university sponsored events such as athletics or conferences.

IR theory paper (15%): You will write a 7-8 page paper outlining one of the main theories of international relations we will discuss during the first part of the semester and apply it to a current conflict among countries. More details will be posted on D2L. A proposal of your paper is due by Friday, Feb. 1, on D2L. Final papers are due on Friday, Feb. 22 on D2L.

International law/organizations paper (15%): You will write a 7-8 page paper discussing a concept of international law or an international organization besides the United Nations. The purpose of this paper is to provide background on the scope of the issues, how countries are attempting to address it, and your assessment on the future success or failure of international law or an organization. More details will be posted on D2L. A proposal of your paper is due by Friday, Apr. 5, on D2L. Final papers are due on Wednesday, Apr. 24 on D2L.

Reading quizzes (10%): I will give pop quizzes throughout the semester based on that day’s readings. Quizzes will be multiple-choice and are designed to test whether you read the material, as reading beforehand helps generate good discussion. I will keep highest 15 quizzes. As each individual quiz is worth little to your overall grade, quizzes cannot be made up.

Participation (10%): While this is an intro class where I will lecture frequently, class participation is essential to your learning, and also because you do not want me to drone on for an hour (My wife will attest to that!). Since I assume you have read the material since there are reading quizzes, everyone should be prepared to contribute. I am not looking for the right answer when I look for responses. I am also looking to move along the conversation a bit and help flesh out any questions. I will call on everyone at some point during the semester, so be prepared to answer questions and offer your thoughts. There will be times when we get to debate issues. If you miss more than six classes with unexcused absences, you lose half of your participation points. If you are absent due to university sponsored events, you will need to email me a 1-2 page reaction to the readings with questions before class.

Grading notes: Proper spelling, punctuation, grammar, and sentence structure will be assessed as part of your exam and paper grades. Developing the ability to write clearly is an important skill for your future careers. You are expected to carefully read, edit, and proofread their written work. If you would like help with your writing skills, there are on-campus resources that are there to help you. The university offers help in various subjects through the Academic Support Center. Assistance is free and is available in the Student Union Building. Drop-in writing help is available from 9 a.m. – 2 p.m. Monday-Thursday.

Laptop/Cell Phone Policy

I understand many of you use your computers and tablets to take notes. If you do so, you will need to choose a seat along the walls so your screens will not be distracting to others. I do not allow cell phones in class, so if you need to text, please step out for a moment (but don't make it a habit). I will stop class and wait if I see any texting.

Email etiquette

I try to answer emails the same day they are received, but in some cases, you may have to wait 48 hours for a response. For emails, please use an appropriate subject and appropriate salutations (e.g. Dr. Adkins or Prof. Adkins). Professors do not like it when you start with "Hey!" or "Yo!" Keep emails as short as possible and please do not email about the details of an assignment on the day it is due. I hold five office hours per week and am available by appointment outside of those hours and my other classes if needed.

Assignment and late work policy

All papers should use 12-point Times New Roman font, be double-spaced, and use 1-inch margins. You may use APA or Chicago (parenthetical) Style for your citations. All assignments must be turned in on D2L unless noted. No exceptions will be made. All assignments must be in a Word file (.doc or .docx). Any other file format such as .pdf, .rtf, or Apple Pages will not be accepted and returned with a zero. Google Docs and Pages can export to a Word format. Late work will be accepted. However, life happens. I allow one no-questions asked late pass good for a 48-hour extension on the paper assignments. You just need to email me if you need to use one. If you run into issues in completing assignments, visit me during office hours, especially 1-2 weeks before papers are due. Be proactive instead of reactive. I cannot do much to help once due dates have come and gone.

Registration Requirement

University policy requires all students to be officially registered in each class they are attending. Students who are not officially registered for a course by published deadlines should not be attending classes and will not receive credit or a grade for the course. Please confirm enrollment in MyInfo. Registration errors must be corrected prior to university deadlines. After the deadline for withdrawing for the class without instructor permission, I will only give permission to those who experience a documented emergency such as serious illness or death in the family that occurs after the deadline.

Plagiarism and Academic Honesty

Use of the intellectual property of others without attributing it to them is considered a serious academic offense. I will either give a zero for an assignment or you will fail the course if I detect academic misconduct. It can also lead to a disciplinary hearing where sanctions can suspension or expulsion from the university. I report all instances of plagiarism to Student Affairs. The university’s policy on academic misconduct can be found in Section B of the student handbook. I will provide links to how to avoid plagiarism on D2L. I am available to help. However, you are responsible for learning how to properly cite your sources and avoid plagiarism.

Student Accessibility

MSU Billings is committed to providing equal access. If you anticipate barriers related to the format or requirements of this course, please meet with me so that we can discuss ways to ensure your full participation in the course. If you determine that disability-related accommodations are necessary, please contact Disability Support Services (657-2283) located in Room 135 in the College of Education). We can then plan how best to coordinate your accommodations.
